

EP 18 Show Notes- Fighting through Fear & Pain by doing what you Love with Suzanne Priddle

You know a lot of times when life deals us a bad hand, it can be hard to stay positive and keep fighting through our struggles, especially in life or death situations. But sometimes, having a love or a passion for something that gives our lives meaning can be a source of tremendous strength to keep us going. My special guest today is Suzanne Priddle, she is a Yoga instructor, a mother, and an awesome Salsa dancer. She is also a breast cancer survivor and a conqueror.

Suzanne was so kind enough and willing to come on the show to share her personal story, the challenges she went through, and how the doctor had told her she would not be able to continue salsa dancing, which was one of her sources of Joy and hope as she fought through and underwent treatment. I'm excited to have her on the show and I hope you enjoy listening to her inspiring story.

Thanks for listening 😊
